What is sitePilot Education Manager?

sitePilot Education Manager is a comprehensive online learning management system. Flexible by design, it can be used to successfully implement and maintain a wide range of training and education programs. From course enrollment to the scoring of test results, it streamlines the education processes, saving you considerable time, effort and money in the implementation of critical channel partner and customer training. What's more, its user-friendly tools allow you to manage course content with very little technical training.

To enrich the online learning experience, Education Manager employs interactive learning tools, such as flash-based exercises, video presentations and self-testing areas. Students can access training from anywhere in the world, learn at their own pace, and ask questions using a live assistance service.

Who uses sitePilot Education Manager?

sitePilot Education Manager is ideal for any organization seeking an e-learning solution.

Online trading companies use it to deliver interactive online trading courses designed to help their customers improve their skills in trading the markets.
